

BATTLE FIRES THRU NIGHT IN BIG FLAT AREA

A mountain fire was still raging on the eastern slope of Big Flat at noon today after forest wardens and firemen had battled throughout the night and thought they had the forest blaze subdued at 4 o'clock this morning. They were recalled at 7:30 o'clock to fight the blaze which has covered several hundred acres over approximately a 3-mile area.

Fire wardens were called first about 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening when a motorist reported a blaze off the Caledonia-Carlisle Rd., near Laurel Lake.

That fire was confined by the time it had burned over about an acre. While the fire fighters were putting out the last embers, they noted a glow in the sky and on investigation found a huge blaze rolling up on Big Flat.

Battle Through Night

Forty-five students from the Pennsylvania Forestry School at Mont Alto, the forest fire wardens from throughout the area including crews from the Bendersville, Arendtsville and Orrtanna sections, the Mt. Holly Springs Fire Department and the Michaux District foresters rushed into the battle under the direction of Michaux District Forester William Vandistine.

The battle against the blaze continued throughout the night, ending about 4 o'clock this morning. The fire atop the mountain could be seen for miles. Gettysburg firemen, completing a meeting at the engine house, were called by persons traveling along the Bigerville Rd. who had seen the blaze from the top of Keckler's Hill, just north of here. They returned to the engine house and put additional forest fire fighting equipment aboard the engines in anticipation of a call to help fight the blaze. Contact was made with the main radio station at Shippensburg which was in contact with the Mt. Holly fire truck atop Big Flat. A number of the Gettysburg firemen remained at the engine house until Shippensburg reported that the fire had been brought under control.

Call At 1 p.m. Today

The Mount Alto Forestry School students returning about 5 o'clock found a fire in a dump near their school was spreading and they had to maintain patrol on it to keep it from getting into the woods.

Then at 7:30 this morning the blaze on the east slope of Big Flat again burst into life, recalling the society treasury.

More Attractions For PTA Festival

Indian dances, baton twirling and square dancing have been added to the list of attractions for the annual spring festival to be held this evening from 4 to 10 o'clock at the Keefauver Elementary School by the Gettysburg Parent Teacher Association.

SPEND $700 OF SEAL SALE FUND TO AID CHILDREN

The Easter Seal sale in Adams County by the Adams County Society for Crippled Children and Adults already has exceeded the 1956 total. Directors of the society learned Wednesday afternoon at their May meeting as they voted expenditures of approximately $700 for braces, a bed lift and eight weeks of summer camp for a county youngster.

Dr. Clarence Bartholomew, president of the society, presided at the meeting and said Mrs. Donald Myers, Easter Seal chairman here, has received a letter of "sincere thanks and congratulations" from the state seal sale director for the record made by the county campaign. Dr. Bartholomew also has received a letter of "sincere thanks and congratulations" from the state society's public relations director for the seal sale record here.

Mrs. Myers said returns continue to come in from the seal letters and to date total $2,842.10. Coin boxes reported so far netted an extra $63.83, she said. Last year's total from all sources was $2,671.55. She thanked members of her committee and of the board who helped with the sale and expressed appreciation to The Gettysburg Times and WGTF for help on seal publicity. Mrs. Joseph E. Codori reported a current balance of $4,707 in the society treasury.

185 For New Braces

The directors approved payment of $185 for new braces for a nine-year-old county girl who is a victim of cerebral palsy and has a dislocated hip. Her family is unable to provide the braces.

Approved by state nurses in attendance at the meeting that only one bed lift is available in the county and that there is a current urgent need for another, the society voted to buy one and place it at the disposal of the state nurses for use by bed-ridden patients. It will be used to move them out of bed and into bed. The list price is $198. The lift will be marked as the property of the Crippled Children's Society and will be available without charge.

Mrs. Clara Bushey, state nurse, reported on the recent diagnostic clinic where many Adams County

FIREMEN WILL BEGIN TUESDAY TO ASK FUNDS

Gettysburg firemen will begin their annual solicitation for donations in the borough and surrounding countryside next Tuesday evening. Glenn Weishaar, general chairman of the 94th Battle Anniversary Committee, announced Wednesday evening at a meeting of the fire department at the engine house, E. Middle St.

Weishaar urged that at least 50 firemen be out each evening in order to expedite the solicitation. "We need to complete the canvass as quickly as possible," Weishaar said, "because we have a great deal more work to do than we have had in the last few years to set up the carnival at the new site on the Recreation Field."

Initial cost of the change in site also led Weishaar to say: "We hope the public backs the solicitation even more generously than usual this year because we're going to need every nickel we can get."

New Truck Being Built

Cost of installing lights in the central part of the Recreation Field for the new site of the carnival will be approximately $3,200, Weishaar estimated. Engineers from the Metropolitan Edison Co., surveying the area, recommended nine 40-foot poles, 16 lighting fixtures, a 100 KVA transformer and use of 2,500 feet of wire to set up the

Many Forest Fires Blazing Through Parched Woodlands

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A forest fire near historic Plymouth, Mass., one of many such fires in the tinder dry Northeast, was reported raging out of control today.

Francis W. Sargent, state commissioner of natural resources, and Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts boarded a National Guard plane for a first-hand inspection of the flaming area in the Myles Standish state forest.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forest fires continued today to threaten woodlands of the nation's northeast area.

In Michigan, a 750-acre fire in the big Huron National Forest near Lake Huron was brought under control last night after a full half-day's battle by 400 persons.

In Maine a wind-whipped blaze roared through 3,200 acres of forest in Jackman last night. The fire isolated a sporting camp owner and his wife, but forestry officials expected to get them out.

A fire raging through Manchester, Mass., woodlands, threatening fashionable residences, appeared under control last night. Manchester is about 20 miles north of Boston.

Several homes were destroyed in the Plymouth-Carver area in southeastern Massachusetts.

In New York State, three houses and a barn were destroyed. A woman pleaded guilty to violating Gov. Averell Harriman's forest fire order and was fined $75.

For a time yesterday the Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda, Mich., lay in the path of flaming timberland.

THANK YOU

May 8, 1957
Mr. Paul L. Roy, Editor
The Gettysburg Times
Gettysburg, Penna.

Dear Mr. Roy,
It is always a joy to receive a compliment. This has been my pleasure and because you are, in a way, responsible, may I share this joy with you?

There were innumerable comments, all favorable, concerning the news coverage of the 32nd annual convention of the Harrisburg Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, held in Gettysburg. She was awarded three blue ribbons for a dogwood arrangement in an antique sugar bowl, a dining room table spring flower arrangement and a group of yellow tulips mixed with violet iris and pussy willow. Mrs. Oyler's entries competed in the following classes: arrangement of spring flowers in an antique container, dining room table arrangements of any type of flowers, tulip arrangement in mixed colors of any variety.

Hard shell crabs and steamed shrimp will be served Friday night.

Next week hard shell crabs, and steamed clams and shrimp will be available and the following week turtle soup, hard shell crabs and shrimp will be served.

Regular dinners will not be served Friday evenings during the sea food weeks.

This would not have been possible, without your willingness to give space to the many advance articles submitted, as well as the actual convention coverage. So, in the name of the diocesan officials, whom we were both trying to please, and evidently succeeded; and in my own name, a sincere "thank you."

Respectfully,
Mary W. Alcott

President Of France In Rome

ROME (AP) — President Reno Carty of France arrived in Rome today for a five-day state visit.

During his stay he will call upon Pope Pius XII. It will be the first official visit paid by a French chief of state on a Roman Catholic pontiff since the year 800 when Pope Leo III crowned Charlemagne.

President Giovanni Gronchi and the entire caretaker Cabinet of Premier Antonio Segni were at Ostiense railroad station — built especially by Mussolini to receive Adolf Hitler — to greet the French president. A salute of 101 guns roared as the official party paraded to the ancient Arch of Constantine in the Roman Forum where Mayor Umberto Tupini read a message of welcome.

Daughters of the Dorcas

The Daughters of the Dorcas Sunday School Class of Mt. Zion Lutheran Church, Goodey, will hold a "variety night" in the social room of the church Saturday evening starting at 5 o'clock. A chicken platter for 75 cents will be served. Throughout the evening there will be various kinds of entertainment. There will also be for sale Mother's Day gifts, potted flowers, homemade bread, home-made ice cream and pastries.

The Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 40 met Tuesday evening at the Muesum Lounge. Dues and attendance were taken after which the girls completed and wrapped their Mother's Day projects. A short business session was held and troop camping was discussed. Games and singing were held. The meeting closed with Indian taps. Mrs. Dan Warrington, leader, was assisted by Mrs. Hugh Robinson and Miss Nellie Irvin.

Eisenhower's broadcasts fall — if the people do not respond by pressuring Congress — the lawmakers will probably take it as a fresh license not to listen to him. They've been doing very little listening to him in 1957.

Talk Sharp Cuts

There have been other times when he explained his actions to the nation in broadcasts. But the circumstances were different. Then his leadership was not being challenged in both houses of Congress as it is now.

Other provisions of the new sales tax amendments tighten enforcement procedures in accordance with requests of the Revenue Department. The bill was the result of a bipartisan agreement.

The governor also signed into law a bill fixing the formula for paying part of the liquid fuels tax to local governments for road and bridge repairs.

The measure stipulates that each municipality will receive allocations based six-tenths on the total miles of roadway maintained by the municipality and four-tenths on total population of the municipality. The division is as under present law.

He made those protests in news conferences, in speeches to special groups, or in other public statements aimed at Congress. There is little evidence he attempted to assert his personal influence and leadership with individual members of Congress.

His policy for four years has been to avoid any personal conflict with Congress, no matter how badly he wanted something done. He's still doing that by going around Congress in an appeal to the people.

Some In Danger

Not only his budget is in danger from the lawmakers who are not listening to him. Some of his biggest programs — like federal aid to education and civil rights — seem headed for the trash bin.

This Congress, now in its fifth month, has moved so slowly it has passed only two major Eisenhower requests: approval for his Mideast program and continuation of corporate and excise tax rates.

It was predicted when he won his second term that he'd have far less influence on the lawmakers than in his first four years. The reason: because he's constitutionally banned from a third term, even his own Republicans don't need him as much as when, during his first term, he could run again and help them politically.

The prediction appears to be coming true fast.

Survey For Bridge

The official population will be that determined as of Jan. 1 of the year in which the money is to be paid.

Another bill signed by Leader authorizes the State Highways Department to determine by survey the necessity and feasibility of constructing a bridge across the Susquehanna River between Kingston and Plains Twp., Luzerne County.

Leader emphasized that the act does not "mandate either the undertaking of such a survey or construction of the bridge."

"It merely authorizes the department to determine the advisability of construction of a bridge in that area."

Another measure signed authorizes the department to construct a bridge over the Chester River from a point in Upland to the Chester Expressway in Chester County.

Leader said this act also does not mandate the construction but advises the department to construct the span if it is deemed advisable.

The prediction appears to be coming true fast.

PARADE PLANS FOR SUMMER

Sixty-one members were present at the May meeting of the Alpha Fire Company No. 1, held on Tuesday evening in the engine house, when plans were discussed for the coming parade season of the Company's Uniform Rank. Fred C. Sentz, captain of the marching unit, urged the members to cooperate in every way to make the season as successful as in past years. It was announced that members having uniforms should attend the drill team practices and those wishing to join the unit, who do not have uniforms, are invited to do so as additional uniforms are available.

President George E. Hornberger presided at the session, which opened with the group singing of "America" and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Announcement was made that the coming parade season will include the following engagements for the Uniform Rank: Lancaster County Firemen's Convention, at Christiansburg; Cumberland Valley Firemen's Convention, at Waynesboro; Gettysburg, Pennville, Taneytown and Union Bridge Firemen's parades. The marching unit will drill on May 20 and 21.

Two new members were accepted: Jack E. Rebert and LeRoy D. Kline. Two firemen were reinstated into membership. Secretary Harry W. Badders reported. Expenditures for the month totaled $89.38 and receipts amounted to $1,588.04. The annual allotment for state fire insurance was received, $1,567.79.

There was a discussion on a representative attending the annual fire school at Lewistown, but there was no decision on the matter. Fire Chief Glenn E. Oehler reported three calls answered since the last meeting, all in Mt. Joy Twp. The following were appointed to serve as the social committee for the next quarter: Clyde E. Harner, Harry M. Badders and James P. Hahn. Fire Chief Oehler and Councilman Bernard M. Selby reported on the condition of the present fire siren.

It was announced that the Borough Council is considering the matter of having the old siren replaced or repaired.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by Vernon Reed, Richard Stuller and James Myers. Plans for the annual carnival to be held by the firemen during the first full week in August, will be discussed at the next meeting of the company on Tuesday, June 4, at 8 p.m.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Numbers racketeers, possibly heirs of the late gambling kingpin Marco Reginelli, may be trying to take over the numbers games in Philadelphia, says Dist. Atty. Victor M. Blank.

The Philadelphia Inquirer reported today that Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons had alerted city police to the possibility of a gang warfare outbreak here.

Blank said "we do know that in recent months someone has moved in and is trying to take control of the numbers racket."

The district attorney said the move began last year after Reginelli's death and has been getting worse, especially in south, northeast and north Philadelphia, the area known as the "Jungle."

Blank said he didn't know how much money is involved in the numbers racket. Some reports have placed it as high as 30 million dollars a year.

Four men were arrested yesterday on numbers charges. Two of them were described by police as Reginelli's henchmen.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 7 (P) — The

"Wandering" Fish Hook Snaps

Duck: Robert A. Thompson, Carlisle street, returned here from a fishing trip along Big Spring creek, near Newville, Cumberland county, this week to tell a tale of a big one that got away.

The local angler had secreted himself back of a large boulder along the bank of the popular trout stream so that the wary fish could not see his movements. His cast his line, baited with a long worm, into the stream and then let out foot after foot of the line as the swift current carried the baited hook downstream.

Suddenly there was a heavy tug and "Bob" looked downstream to find that he had hooked a big white duck that had been feeding some distance away. The hook had not been swallowed and the feathered catch was able to shake the hook free.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a real ring-round-the-base-path at Binghamton last night.

Ten Binghamton batters stepped up to the plate in the third inning, seven of them toured the sacks, but only one connected for a hit.

Home come? Four Reading pitchers gave up nine bases on balls in that inning. The seven runs plus three more gave Binghamton a 10-7 victory.

It was the old story at Schenectady. The hometown Blue Jays hammered the Springfield Giants 6-3 even though the Jays were out-hitting 12-5. The league-leading Jays have beaten Springfield six times in seven meetings.

In the other Eastern League game, the Syracuse Chiefs squeaked by the Albany Senators 10-9.

Fight In Fall

Robinson definitely wants to wait until September before he takes on Carmen Basilio in the hottest boxing match of the year.

The four-time middleweight champion visited Jim Norris, the president of the International Boxing Club, yesterday and talked Norris out of any thought of a July bout with Basilio.

"After his experiences with Joey Maxim in the heat, Ray said he has a mental block about the hot months," said Norris. He referred to Robinson's TKO by Maxim in the steaming heat, June 25, 1952, the only time Sugar Ray ever was stopped.

Ted Boosts Red Sox Hopes As His Three Homers Beat Chisox 4-1; Redlegs Edge Dodgers For 9 In Row

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Love him, despise him . . . cheer him, boo him . . . but no real baseball fan can ignore Ted Williams . . . nor the fact that "The Kid," after 18 years, is still "Mr. Big" of the Boston Red Sox.

Williams has been the heart and soul of the Red Sox attack ever since he joined them in 1939. But not since 1946, when he led the team to its only pennant in 38 years—and won the league's most valuable player award to boot—has he demonstrated his importance to the Sox cause as he has this season.

Yesterday was a typical example when Ted smashed three home runs and drove in all the runs as the Red Sox trounced the Chicago White Sox 4-1 for their fourth straight. The victory boosted Boston to within 11 percentage points of second and only a half game from the American League-leading New York Yankees who dropped a 10-4 decision to Cleveland.

Redlegs Win Again
Williams' value to the Red Sox is best illustrated by the team's record. In the 16 games that Williams has appeared in the lineup, the team has won 11. In the four he did not, the team lost three.

Another red hot team, the Cincinnati Reds, stretched their winning streak to nine with a 7-6 triumph over Brooklyn. A grand-slam homer by sizzling Don Hoak and a pair of four-baggers by substitute first baseman George Crowe furnished all the runs and gave the Reds their first eastern sweep since 1940.

The Reds' second straight in Ebbets Field zoomed them into

5th Loss For Chisox

Williams' explosive vat coupled with Frank Sullivan's four-hitter contrived to hand the fifth straight defeat upon the White Sox. Chicago pitchers were able to retire Williams only once to end his streak of reaching base 11 successive times, five on hits and six on walks.

Hoak's grand slammer, in the eighth, came off of loose Don Newcombe, and snapped a 3-3 tie with Brooklyn. The victory went to Warren Hacker, who had lost eight straight times to the Dodgers since July 19, 1954.

He added that it is planned to have individual switches on the various poles so that other local organizations, including the Recreation Association, using the lights at other times of the year for various activities, could turn on such lights as would be needed rather than have to turn on all of the lights.

Fire Chief Donald W. McSherry reported the new Mack truck being ordered by the company is now being constructed at Sydney, Ohio, and will be completed about June 15.

Elect Two Members

President Harold W. The money received annually can be used for no other purpose than the firemen's relief fund.

It will be several days before it will be determined whether the girl will be able to go to camp. She recently underwent surgery.

Miss Margaret McMillan thanked the society for use of one of its wheelchairs during her recent convalescence from a leg fracture.

RED CABINET IS RESHUFFLED

VIENNA, Austria (P) — Communist Hungary's Parliament met today for the first time since the anti-Soviet revolt, and Premier Janos Kadar reported a reshuffle in his Cabinet.

Changes in the Cabinet, announced over Budapest radio, increased the number of ministers from 12 to 21. The government had been working hard to bring Bela Kovacs, leader of the Smallholders party which won a clear majority in the last free elections, into the Cabinet. His name was not on the new list, however.

Neither was the name of Josef Bognar, another Smallholder, nor of Ferenc Erdel, of the National Peasant party.

The changes elevated Antal Apro, minister of supply to Deputy premier, and shifted Finance Minister Istvan Kossa to the Ministry of Post and Transport. Most of the new ministers had been holding the same jobs, but had the title only of commissioner.

The major job of the Parliament session, it was believed, would be to prolong its own life, probably for two years. Its mandate expires May 17.

OPPOSE SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL

About 40 residents of Conewago Township voiced objections to a proposed site for a new consolidated school Tuesday night at a meeting of the township school board.

Henry Leppo, president, called a special open meeting for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Midway elementary school, at which time township school matters will be aired.

The proposed site near McSherrystown, along the Mt. Pleasant Road, was offered to the board by John H. Menges, McSherrystown. It has been approved by the Adams County School Board.

The site has been objected to by numerous residents at several recent board meetings because it is near the sewage treatment plant of Hanover borough and also because of lack of water and electric facilities.

Leppo announced the State Department of Public Instruction has approved the township plans for a new 12-room consolidated school at an estimated cost of $440,000.

George R. Worley was received as a new member of the board to fill the unexpired term of Barry E. Brammer, who resigned because he moved to York. Worley was appointed to the position at the April 15 session of Adams County court.

Earl Krepps was re-elected treasurer for a one-year term. C. P. Keefer, Adams County superintendent of schools, and Francis Coulson, assistant, attended the meeting.

A flair for the unique was exhibited in the display of flowers in containers not intended for flowers. Mrs. M. C. Jones won second place for white phalaenopsis and brown vanda orchids nestled in a miniature Hawaiian outrigger; Mrs. R. H. Powell, third place for a grouping of pansies placed in authentic bronzed Dutch shoes which were on a heavy, wooden Dutch bread board; honorable mention, Mrs. Oyler, mixed spring flowers in a gaily decorated Pennsylvania Dutch "meal scoop."

Thirty-one entries comprised the flower show. Ribbons were awarded to winners by the judges, Mrs. Robert C. Lott and Mrs. Martha Lower, who used the point system. Mrs. Jones, chairman of the garden committee, announced the winners after the regular club business meeting. Mrs. Edward J. Nowicki Jr. and Mrs. John D. Teeter were members of the show committee.

He concluded: "Today should be your finest hour of Christian living. The best way to keep in balance the proper use of history is to possess a living and constant faith in Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, forever—and today."

Scripture was read by the Rev Craig Koedel, pastor of the Dillsburg Presbyterian Church, and prayers were offered by two Harrisburg pastors who formerly served with the Rev. Mr. MacAskill in Lackawanna Presbyterian. The Rev Joseph Kane, pastor of the Westminster church, who gave the invocation, and the Rev. Gordon McKenzie, Covenant church pastor, who gave the prayer of installation.

The constitutional question to the pastor and congregation were asked by the Rev. Mr. Glise. The new pastor pronounced the benediction.

It was announced that the Legion will sponsor a chicken feed to be sold at the Post Home on Saturday, June 1.

A letter was read from the Student Council of Mt. Saint Mary's College expressing appreciation for the aid of the Legion Blood Bank in supplying blood donors for their classmates in the recent fatal accident on the Waynesboro Rd.

Nominations for the Board of Directors include: Andrew T. Shorb, Prof. Richard McCullough, Louis Rosensteel, Paul Humerick, Curtis Topper, Clarence Fraley, Robert Myers, T. Eugene Rodgers, Charles B. Harner, Samuel Clinton, Clarence B. Shorb, William Topper, Carroll C. Topper, Edgar Wastler, Francis Arnold, and J. Ward Kerrigan. Seven will be elected.

Officers will be nominated next month.

The door prize was won by Carroll C. Topper. Refreshments were served by Clarence B. Shorb and the women of the auxiliary.

Meeting or catching a train under such circumstances thus became a wildly exciting, challenging event.

You might, on the one hand, arrive at the station to discover you had three-quarters of an hour to wait, or you might just catch a glimpse of your train as it disappeared down the track.

In many cases the only sure way to determine the arrival or departure of trains was to watch the station from a convenient hill.

DST Confusion Is Simple Compared To Days Before Standard Time Was Started In '83; Sun Time Varied

The annual problem of deciding whether the clock goes ahead or back one hour when Daylight Saving Time goes into effect is simple in comparison to what our grandparents had to go through to get the right time.

As a matter of fact, the only comforting thought about telling time in the good old days was that your version was probably as accurate as anyone else's. The banker with the $2,000 imported Swiss movement could be no more sure what o'clock it was than the laborer with a dollar Ingersoll.

That's because there wasn't any central control system. Prior to the adoption of Standard Time in 1883, clocks and watches followed local time, commonly called "Sun time" because it was base upon the transit of the sun across the meridian.

Standard Time was established by the railroads, not the government, as generally believed. While the railroads were the first to put time on the right track, there had been earlier attempts in the United States to bring some order out of the confusion.

Members were urged to attend the Memoria Day services to be held May 26 in the Reformed Church. The auxiliary will meet at the Legion home and go to the church in a body.

Ten dollars was voted for an ad in the Emmitsburg bicentennial brochure. The name of Nettie Saffler of Frederick was drawn for the door prize but she was not present. Next month the prize will be $4. The refreshment committee for June was announced as follows: Jane Hess, Beatrice Umbel and Madeline Harner.

It was announced that the annual nomination of auxiliary officers will take place in June.

Double Standard" Now

Daylight Saving Time (itself only a variation of Standard Time) went into effect on a national basis March 31, 1918, but was repealed the following year because it proved unpopular. Of course it is in effect, summe times, in many areas through state and city optional decision. Again during World War II the entire country went one hour ahead as part of the war effort, but since V-J Day, Daylight Saving Time has again become a matter of local option.

Ironically, the railroads, which developed the new time system in 1883 to establish a single, nationwide standard, are themselves obliged to operate under a double standard. In many parts of the country, railroads find it necessary, as a convenience to passengers, to publish summer timetables with Daylight Time shown. But they are also required by law to maintain operating timetables based on Standard Time.

The body was recovered by a fireman. Neely was the son of Mrs. Ora Neely of Harrisburg.

Sing Sing, the New York prison, was named for the Sin Sinck Indians.

LEGION WOMEN MEET TUESDAY

Girl Scouts will handle the annual poppy sale for the American Legion Auxiliary at Emmitsburg, it was announced at the regular meeting of the auxiliary Tuesday evening. Twenty-eight attended the meeting.

A message was read from the district president congratulating the Emmitsburg unit on membership gains and wishing the unit success with its poppy sale.

It was announced that the annual state conventions of the American Legion and the auxiliary will be held in Baltimore July 24 to 28.

No local delegates have yet been designated.

HARRISBURG (AP) — James Neely, 17, a high school junior, drowned in Yellow Breeches Creek yesterday. He had been swimming with three classmates during time off from school because of a faculty meeting.

Britain Promises To Leave "No Gap" In German Defense

BONN (AP)—British Prime Minister Macmillan said today he promised West German Chancellor Adenauer that Britain will leave "no gaps" in Western defenses because of its plans to cut troop strength.

But Macmillan, as a news conference winding up his two-day visit to Bonn, would not say flatly whether he had won Adenauer's agreement to the British shift to atomic-armed forces with less troops.

He said, instead, that Adenauer accepted his views "with understanding an full realization of the strong and continued purpose of the British people to play their part in defense."

In Full Agreement"

Macmillan and Adenauer signed a joint communiqué announcing they are "in full agreement on the main aims of their policies."

The communiqué made no mention of the differences over plans to trim British forces in Germany. A diplomatic source said the two government chiefs had moved "much closer together" on the question after starting out "miles apart."

Macmillan said the British troop cuts are a "gradual and continual" affair.

"We do not intend to leave gaps during the course of the transition," he declared. "Effective strength will be maintained at a high level."

Source Of Strength"

Macmillan said manpower alone "is not the sole test of military capability." He added he had assured Adenauer that the British forces would continue to be "a source of real strength to the NATO alliance."

He said the shift would be to troops more mobile, better trained and with greater fire power.

Apparently the West Germans still hope to get a modification of the British plan. The communiqué said West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss will visit London soon to "discuss defense questions of mutual interest."

It also said Macmillan and Adenauer had agreed on the "need for NATO to retain an effective deterrent against aggression, including an adequate shield of land, sea and air forces for the protection of the territory of the member states."

Other Agreements

The question apparently was what constitutes an "adequate shield."

Other agreements announced in the communiqué included:

ASKS MORE FUNDS FOR DREDGING

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Meyer of New Jersey today asked the House and Senate Appropriations Committees to raise President Eisenhower's request for deepening the Delaware River channel and making a study of the river basin.

In a statement sent to the committees, Meyer asked that Eisenhower's request of $9 million dollars for dredging the river from Philadelphia to Trenton in the next fiscal year be raised to 16½

MAN DRUGGED AND THEN SHOT

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A coroner said yesterday that Franklin Doan was drugged with knockout drops before he was tied to a bed and shot to death.

Coroner Norman Green said that Doan, son of a wealthy Toms River, N.J., family had traces of chloral hydrate in his stomach after his body was found Monday morning.

His wrists had been tied to the bed in his apartment with parachute cord. He had been shot through the head.

Police said they were searching for a tall, young man who had visited Doan's apartment a week before his death. Mrs. Gertrude Larson, Doan's landlady, said a young man had come to the apartment a week ago and asked to "look around" when told Doan was not at home.

Doan, 29, had lived much of the time in Arizona because of an asthmatic condition. He is the grandson of former Philadelphia bank president.

He said that at the pace provided for in the President's budget, the dredging could not be finished before 1970. Meyer asked Congress to step in and "prevent intolerable delay."

The governor asked that Eisenhower's request for $355,000 for the study by the Army Corps of Engineers be raised to $800,000.

If the appropriation is not raised,

Meyer said, the scope of the study would have to be cut down or the completion date postponed.

The next thing to consider is function. What will the piece of furniture do? Will the curtains control light and air as they are supposed to or will they just be lovely to look at?

Carry Measurements

One very important point is to take measurements of everything that is measurable and keep the list in your handbag so that it will be readily available when you want it.

"Jot down your window height

your own home."

How to go about it?

List Your Likes

Pahlmann advises taking a pencil and paper in hand, listing your likes, dislikes and all your personal characteristics that come to mind. If you're sharing the home with others, do a similar analysis of their preferences also. The home should be a happy place and if any item in the decor displeases or repels those living with it, the item should be removed.

After that make a floor plan of your room or get one prepared by a professional. Pahlmann says:

"When you have all these things in hand and have made a tour of stores, museums, and friend's homes to see what you like then decide whether you can do the job yourself or whether you should call for professional assistance."

Decorating takes time and money, he says. Sometimes a woman has the money but not the time, another woman has time but no money. Whatever the circumstances, don't let your lack of know-how cause frustrations

Select a decorator or interior designer, not just a friend who may dabble in decoration just for the fun of it.

Whatever happens, Pahlmann advises, it is important that you choose decorative pieces that you like, not what your mother, mother-in-law or neighbor suggests.

SEN. MARTIN TO URGE DEEPER DEL. DREDGING

By JOHN KOENIG JR.
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Martin (R-Pa.) headed a long list of Pennsylvanians due to urge speedier and deeper dredging of the Delaware River at a hearing today of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works.

Martin, top-ranking Republican member of the Senate's Public Works Committee, favors, as do most Delaware River Valley interests, immediate deepening of the channel to 40 feet rather than 35 between Philadelphia and Trenton, N.J.

Yesterday Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia took the witness stand to declare that the interim program of deepening only to a 35-foot level will be more costly than doing the entire job right away.

Have 9 Million

The appropriation for the year beginning July 1 is nine million dollars. Dilworth asked that it be boosted to 16½ million dollars.

Martin, too, has criticized the Bureau of the Budget for instigating the interim program and "ignoring the cost factor." Today he is expected to follow the same tack.

Rep. Curtin (R-Pa.), whose home district fronts along the Delaware River, also was scheduled to testify. Curtin from the outset of his term has urged proper development of Delaware River resources.

To Register Opposition

Business interests will be represented by the Joint Executive Committee for Improvement and Development of the Philadelphia Port Area and a representative of the National Gypsum Co., which is locating a new plant on the New Jersey side of the river.

Opposition to the deepening project was to be registered by the Delaware Valley Assn.

Additional Pennsylvanians and a group of Delaware state delegates were due also to testify on a separate appropriation for continuing a water resources survey of the Delaware Valley.

PEGS SUPPORT TO COST INDEX

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—Mrs. Hayne Ellis Jr., 47, got a divorce yesterday, plus a monthly allowance pegged to the cost of living index compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in Washington.

Ellis, 42, is an officer of the International Paper Co., with an income estimated in his wife's divorce papers at $35,000 to $50,000 a year. She accused him of neglecting his marital duties. He denied her allegations but did not contest the divorce.

Judge Earl E. O'Connor ordered Ellis to put $1,300,000 worth of his International Paper stock into a trust fund. From its earnings, Mrs. Ellis will get a monthly payment based on the cost of living index—in no case less than $1,000 a month. He can keep the remainder. If she remarries the trust is dissolved.

The court also awarded her another $25,000 and a station wagon. Ellis keeps the family home in Mission Hills, a high-toned Kansas City suburb.

Can't Pinch Girls At Christmas Party

BOSTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled that a man can be fired for calling the boss names, fighting with a fellow employee and playfully pinching one of the girls at a Christmas party.

The court yesterday affirmed the judgment of the federal court of Puerto Rico which ruled there was no breach of contract when the Long Construction Co. of San Juan fired Robert E. Johnson, Indianapolis, in January, 1948.

Johnson had sought $150,000 in damages.

Testimony was introduced that Johnson called the boss names, fought with another worker and pinched a girl at an office Christmas party in 1947. He was fired for that.

SCHAD DIES AT READING

READING, Pa. (AP)—Funeral services were being arranged today for Harry J. Schad, 83, a builder and operator of Reading theaters since 1907. He died last night at Reading Hospital.

Schad was a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science and for several years was president of the Motion Picture Owners Assn. of Eastern Pennsylvania, South Jersey and Delaware.

He is survived by his widow, Edna, and a daughter, Mrs. Louise Esterly, both of Reading.

THIEF IN UNIFORM

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nectar Calayan, 27, cafeteria cashier, told police a gunman who had just eaten took $100 from the cash register. She said the man wore a grey uniform, without any insignia, carried a gun in one hand and wore a money-changer on his belt.

The U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga measures 187 feet from waterline to top of the foremast, 20 feet higher than Niagara Falls.

Nancy Wolff's Prize Winning DAR Essay Published By Times

The prize-winning essay by Miss Nancy Wolff, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce N. Wolff, Springs Ave., in the annual contest conducted by the Gettysburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was written on the theme "New Challenges to American Youth" and follows in full:

"Come on and fight! Dare to be different! Be a leader!" These are challenges, important challenges. The word "challenge" itself means a call or defiance to personal contest. Without a doubt, one of the most important challenges to youth today has to do with a return to sensible behavior. This problem is an old yet ever new one which has faced generation after generation. It is true, however, that there is a dangerous type of twentieth century lowliness in the upsurge and it must be curtailed. The age at which this delinquency is occurring is decreasing. In the not too distant past, the age of the hardened criminal was nineteen years. Authorities are apprehending masses of very much younger criminals and it is not unusual for the fourteen-year-old to commit the more serious crimes of murder, armed robbery and completely planned theft as well as other commonplace illegal acts.

Young people who are thinking are likely to be influenced in the wrong way by non-thinkers. Adults realize this fact and try to help, but nine times out of ten, their attempts are disregarded. If this sort of thing keeps up, it will leave a bad effect on this nation as a whole, for the citizens who are children now will be the next generation to run this country.

This land cannot be managed by disorderly, non-thinking people. It must be handled by clear-headed, responsible leaders.

Education Has Part

Where control drops out, lawlessness takes over. By following the wrong leaders, gangsters will be predominant and this country will be run by people who put emotions ahead of clear thinking and follow their own desires. Juvenile delinquency plays an important role in the destruction of a country.

The thinking children of each and every class and school must help the unfortunate ones who may have been caught in the net of delinquency or else this problem will keep snowballing until it is too big for anyone to handle. The lower group should be degraded and disregarded instead of being admired and allowed to take the upper hand.

Education has a prominent part in guiding the thoughts of youth. Many young people are ignorant and do not accept this fact; consequently, they quit school before they obtain the full sense of value intended for them to learn. People are educated in order to acquire better jobs and to live better adult lives. "Education aims to give the individual habits that will enable him to deal most effectively with his environment."

Courage To Be Someone

A sensible childhood is essential. Many children think that it is smart to make fun of the "brain" or the person who really tries. In the end, it will be this person who will make the better cleric, doctor, teacher, housewife, farmer, mechanic, or whatever he or she may choose as a career. Who in his right mind would elect to treat elements for a severe illness or a broken bone by the person who had totally misspent his adolescent life? What teacher would amount to anything who early learned habits of disobedience and mental and physical laziness?

In one act of ignorance, no-goods may break down many ideals that have been built up for centuries. Being swayed by the crowd is something of which many youths and adults are guilty. Mob psychology makes it so much easier to go along with a destructive group than to stand up and voice an opinion as to why the crowd is wrong.

Much more courage is necessary in order to be someone; to be a self, than to be blown about hither and thither with the mob. Good habits, the same as bad ones, begin in childhood will carry into the nation in the same way. These elements may be called habits. Habits have great influence on thinking. If one gets into the habit of not thinking for himself in childhood, this most assuredly will be true in adulthood. "Past training and individual differences in temperament no longer limit the possibilities that so occur to us; but they color and qualify those of which we become conscious." What people take for granted on the whole is settled by their habits.

Youth can help immensely to curtail the bad elements in their fellow students. Many times the hands of a school's authorities may be tied. The youth will pay no attention to what an older person may try to tell him. The young people must be ever ready and willing to control such problems and to maintain set principles.

Laws Have Purpose

"Good, better, best; never let it rest, till your good is better and product being communism. Bad your better best." This ambition must be possessed in order to face the many challenges calling youth.

"It is the desire to be a factor in the world, to increase the scope and consequence of one's self that is the leading ingredient in what we call ambition, and the desire for fame, and at least one ingredient in the desire for wealth."

Laws are made for a purpose. Law breakers do not stop to think for what these rules are made. They follow their own desires and the people with weak minds fall in line. At home, the laws are made to help children get by the years when bad habits may start. Actually, these procedures are not really rules, but good common sense that helps youth finally to lead good lives as adults. One bad mistake can wreck a person's life for all of his days. At the time of this error, the deed may seem like fun, but with the day of reckoning come trouble and heartaches. The act then seems like anything but fun.

Youth must strive for adult minds so that when the time comes for him to take over this nation, he will be ready. This doesn't mean not having any fun, but it does mean having good, clean, wholesome entertainment.

Today's Challenges

Disregard for law and order is a step towards anarchy with the end

Indict Bus Driver In Fatal Accident

STROUDSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Bus driver Raymond J. Barry, 34, was indicted by a Monroe County grand jury on involuntary manslaughter charges growing out of the death of five college students in a highway crash last Jan. 29.

Free on $1,500 bail, Barry probably will be brought to trial in the September term of court.

DEMOCRATS NOT GOING TO PLAY POLITICS ON AID

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said today Democrats are not going to "play politics" in considering President Eisenhower's foreign aid program.

"We are going to prudently review that program and all of the other items in his spending budget and cut out every dime of it that is nonessential," said Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader.

"However, we want to maintain the security of the country just as much as the President does and we are not going to play politics on this issue."

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday the money that goes into foreign aid, State Department and information serv-

President Tells Reporters He Agrees Rapid Tax Writeoffs For Big Business Should Be Stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told his press conference Wednesday that he agrees with Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey and Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) that rapid tax writeoffs for large business firms should be discontinued or drastically curtailed.

The President mentioned a couple of exceptions—national defense, for example.

DISARMAMENT — The Soviet Union's proposal for limited "open skies" military inspection is being studied carefully. Eisenhower emphasized, however, that the important thing is not how much acreage the Russians are willing to open to inspection, but what military installations are located in the area.

Russia has proposed that the United States open Alaska and the Western part of the United States to Soviet air inspection in exchange for agreement to U.S. inspection of areas in Siberia.

STEVENSON — The Eisenhower administration offered Adlai E. Stevenson an assignment with the U.S. delegation to the United Nations three years ago. Eisenhower made that statement when asked whether he ever had considered offering an administration post to the Democratic presidential nominee of 1952 and 1956.

Receive No Offer

Stevenson said last Sunday he might be willing to accept such a job but that he had received no offer. He had said sometime earlier that he turned down a 1954 offer because he was not in a position at the time to accept.

MISSILES — Discussing the Defense Department order limiting the Army's development of guided missiles to those of only 200-mile range, Eisenhower questioned the feasibility of letting the Army engage in work on longer range missiles. Why, he asked, would the Army be interested in a missile with a 1,500-mile range?

Eisenhower went on to say that if the Army did have such a missile, it would need an air arm capable of operating 1,500 miles to find out whether the missile was working successfully.

Had Exposed Secrets

NICKERSON — Asked whether he thought Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. acted properly in making public the Air Force-Army controversy over development of an Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile, Eisenhower replied that the only complaint he had received regarding Nickerson was that the Army officer had exposed secret papers to public view.

Nickerson, who is stationed at the Army's Redstone Missile Arsenal, near Huntsville, Ala., has been ordered before a court-martial on charges of disclosing secret information to unauthorized persons—such as newspapermen and members of Congress—in an effort to keep the Air Force from getting control of the Army's rocket work.

SOVIET THREATS — Commenting on the recent rash of Soviet threats to use atomic weapons against Western European nations if they become anti-Communist military bases, Eisenhower said Russia has been following that procedure for a long, long time.

He added we can't base our defense development just on those threats. The free world, the President said, is trying to develop policies which will secure world peace and prevent war.

EURATOM — Plans of Western European nations to develop atomic power for peaceful uses will have slight, if any, effect on the administration's projected $4,400,000 foreign aid program.

Eisenhower said that not a great deal of foreign aid is going to Europe any more, except in the case of military equipment.

ATOMIC WEAPONS — Discussing proposals for holding up production of atomic weapons and converting the nuclear materials to peaceful use, Eisenhower said he assumed that under such a program nuclear weapons would not be produced. He said that if an air tight agreement was reached there should be no reason for worry since no atomic weapons would be produced.

Will Welcome Diem

DIEM — Noting that President Ngo Dinh Diem of Viet Nam was arriving in Washington later in the day for a state visit, Eisenhower expressed truly great personal pleasure in Diem's coming. He said Diem had displayed great courage and statesmanship in developing his country along the lines of devotion to freedom.

SUMMIT MEETING — Asked about the possibility of a new summit meeting with the Russians, Eisenhower said the Soviet Union has made no new proposal that one be held. He said that such international conferences should not be regarded as just

CLAIMS SEWER WATER CAN BE MADE DRINKABLE

By STEVE LOWELL

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP) — An engineering professor says the time may come when Americans will use reclaimed sewer water for domestic purposes.

"Water is neither created nor destroyed, nor is it changed in form; it merely becomes dirty and all we have to do is wash it," says John Clark.

The New Mexico A&M professor, a specialist in sanitary engineering, says industry "has proved that it is economical in certain instances" to use treated sewer water, and only psychological barriers keep it from being a source of water for ordinary home use.

"Our psychological attitudes regarding sewage water for personal use will have to be overcome if we are to be space travelers or live for a while on a satellite circling the earth," he says.

Necessary Water

It seems improbable that we will be able to carry along the huge amounts of water necessary to our persons on a trip lasting days, months or even years.

In the absence of other available supplies, it might be necessary to treat and re-use the same water many times."

Industry does not have the psychological barrier, however, and Clark says it "will readily take" the reclaimed water.

As for domestic use, he says one thing that would help knock down the psychological barrier would be a time lag.

"Then a person wouldn't have the feeling of drinking the same water for dinner that he had for breakfast.

Lagooning

"One method for providing a time lag would be lagooning for a month or so. The lagoon could be a natural lake or reservoir or series of park ponds. These bodies of water should have a maximum of beauty and recreational use. Public contact with this water would go a long way to prove that it is just like any other water and maybe a lot cleaner than some."

As long as it is properly treated between each use, Clark maintains the same water can be used over and over again.

Although admitting that the psychological barrier to using "washed" sewage water for drinking purposes is so high the system is not likely to be adopted in the near future, Clark nevertheless points out the barrier is illogical.

"After all," he says, "the water that you drank today may have once been in Cleopatra's swimming pool."

Notes From A DOCTOR'S Notebook

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

The Associated Press

Do you make a big effort to see to it that your children eat vegetables? Vegetables are an important part of a good diet and it is worth the worry to get them inside the youngsters.

But are the vegetables you serve the valuable nutritional items they should be?

Vegetables are good sources of vitamins and minerals. Most of them contribute roughage which is necessary for human internal workings. Some vegetables have good protein, although vegetables are not our main source of protein. Many vegetables are good sources of carbohydrate. But the vitamins and minerals are vegetables' greatest claim to fame.

Vitamins are delicate substances, it's easy to destroy them in cooking and minerals can all too readily be removed from vegetables in preparing them for the table.

Cook 'em Right

It's a waste to spend time and effort in getting no-account vegetables down the gullets of reluctant children.

Let's make sure that every last vitamin and mineral nature puts into our vegetables gets into our children.

Cook vegetables as little as possible. The longer you cook them the more vitamins you destroy. Cook them in as little water as you can. Try to come out even with the water, so that when the vegetable is tender enough to eat, all the water has been absorbed into the vegetable. If any water is left over, don't throw it away. This left over vegetable water contains a lot of the vitamins of the original vegetables. Have a jar into which you drain left-over water, and use it for making soup or gravy.

To cook vegetables and not have water to drain off requires covered pots. A pressure cooker is ideal.

Save Those Vitamins

The vitamins in vegetables are destroyed more quickly in an alkaline solution than in an acid one. For this reason never add soda to vegetables. Soda does often keep the color greener but the pretty color is at the expense of the truly valuable vitamins. A tablespoonful of vinegar or lemon juice in a pot of vegetables will keep the solution acid and preserve the vitamins. The slight taste of the vinegar disappears in the cooking.

The minerals in vegetables are usually near the outside surface especially in root vegetables like potatoes, carrots, beets, parsnips. Wash these vegetables thoroughly but do not peel them before cooking unless you are making a stew. Take off just as thin a layer as you possibly can, the less you take off the less you lose. With potatoes use the skin as often as possible, the skin of a baked potato is good eating, especially if you bake the potato rapidly and the skin is crisp.

After you have prepared vegetables for cooking use them right away. Do not let them stand around in a basin of water for hours before cooking. The water dissolves the precious vitamins and minerals.

Frozen vegetables will usually cook in the moisture in the package without the addition of more water. Use a covered pot.

Canned vegetables often have too much water with them. Cook them in an open pot and let the water evaporate.

It's really easy to prepare vegetables so that every bit of their nutritional value is retained. In addition, well-cooked vegetables taste a great deal better than waterlogged ones.

If you want to get gay and different with your vegetables experiment with a few herbs. You may be surprised by the wonderful flavors you can produce. Add some summer savory to a cauliflower, or some mint to the peas, or a dash of thyme to stewed celery.

Mrs. Engel says her husband keeps a four-seater at the Washington-Virginia Airport in the hope

Washington News Letter

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although

Clare Engel, Democratic congresswoman from California, recently broke the sound barrier flying jet, his wife is content to take to the air as an ordinary passenger.

"I'd hate to fly that fast," she said. "In fact, I'm going to let someone else do the piloting in any ordinary plane in which I travel, though I flew in 1947 and even soloed."

Mrs. Engel says her husband keeps a four-seater at the Washington-Virginia Airport in the hope of being able to fly to nearby beaches during summer weekends. She has doubts, however, that the congressman will be able to get away for such recreational junkets while Congress is in session, though they will be flying their craft to Daytona Beach, Fla., with the congressional baseball team late this month.

The congressman's wife soloed in a two-seater while learning to fly back in California.

"After that," she said, "I thought I was lucky to get down all in one piece. I wasn't going to press my luck. I haven't flown a plane since."

Spring Bonnet

Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R-Ill.) was receiving compliments on her new spring bonnet, shaped like a full-blown red rose of silk petals and green leaves, at a recent

Sunday afternoon reception.

"I love hats, and it's a great great hardship not being able to wear them on the floor of the House," the congresswoman told me, "so I have to break out with them on weekends. Do you think this one can get me re-elected?"

Beck Gets Chance To Answer Charges He Used Union Money And Influence To Aid His Son

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets probes today offered Dave Beck a chance to answer testimony he used Teamsters Union money and influence to help his son run a lucrative beer business.

Beck, still invoking the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer the committee's questions, declined even to say yesterday whether he knew his own son, Dave Beck Jr. The committee has been trying for nearly two months to locate the younger Beck for questioning.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer reported, meantime, that Beck Jr. had been located in Vancouver B. C., but had checked out of a hotel there early yesterday.

Tell About Business

This is Beck Sr.'s second Fifth Amendment round of questioning before the rackets group. In late March he invoked the amendment 117 times in two days in refusing to tell whether he had diverted to his own use some $320,000 of union funds.

Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) told Beck to his face yesterday the new hearings would explore Beck's "improper use of union funds...improper use of the power which the (union) membership placed in Mr. Beck's hands."

Witnesses yesterday told how Beck had arranged to set up a beer-whisky distributorship in Seattle and other Washington state communities and in Alaska.

Profits From Venture

The Beck family bought into two related firms—with young Beck eventually becoming president of one and his mother a major stockholder in the other. Stock they and a doctor friend purchased for $89,000 was later sold for $177,500, nearly double the purchase price.

Two Seattle men, Irving J. Levine and Stewart O. Krieger, told of Beck's obtaining a Budweiser beer distributing franchise for his son in 1946.

Levine quoted Beck as saying

ANOTHER FIGHT FOR PO FUNDS BREWING TODAY

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another big fight over Post Office Department funds was brewing on Capitol Hill today, with renewed cuts in postal services a possibility starting July 1.

Postmaster General Summerfield told Congress yesterday such cuts probably will have to be made unless the lawmakers give him 70 to 90 million dollars more in fiscal 1958 than was asked in President Eisenhower's budget.

This statement was made just before it voted to restore 32 million dollars of the 58 millions sliced by the House from the $3.4 billion dollars requested for the post office agency in 1958.

Consider Rate Increases

On the House side, meanwhile, the Post Office Committee considered rate increases for newspapers and magazines as part of a bill to reduce the postal deficit. But a boost in rates would not affect the request for bigger appropriations. Congress fixes the ceiling on Post Office expenditures, and the department cannot spend directly the money it takes in.

Summerfield said that he would need full restoration of the 58 million in addition to the 70 to 90 million in extra funds. He said a "phenomenal increase" in mail volume in recent weeks makes the additional request necessary, and added that apparently the flood of mail would continue.

First Fiscal Bill

The action of the subcommittee was expected to be upheld by the full Senate Appropriations Committee today.

The subcommittee voted a total of $3,917,000 in the bill—$3,200,000 for the Post Office Department, $691,500 for the treasury, and $1,460,000 for the tax court. The only restoration was in postal funds; the 22 million House cut in the Treasury allotment was allowed to stand.

This was the first of the fiscal 1958 money bills to be acted on by a Senate subcommittee. So far eight have passed the House.

In this instance, the subcommittee action was to restore about 40 per cent of the over-all House cut in the bill.

Approximately 200 million people in the world today depend largely on the ocean for their everyday food, says a Twentieth Century Fund report.

NEW TREASURER OF STATE TALKS TO PA. BANKERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Robert F. Kent, newly inaugurated state treasurer of Pennsylvania, today pledged "good business administration" in the handling of the Keystone State's finances.

In an address prepared for the opening business meeting of the Pennsylvania Bankers Assn.'s 63rd annual convention, Kent said:

"We plan to base our conduct of the Treasury Department on the concept of what we know as a good business administration."

Wants Job Well Done

"Due to the fact that we are, by law, the custodian of the millions of dollars of the public's money we dare not—and we will not—tolerate any shoddy processes in lieu of a well done."

Kent, a Republican, elected to the state treasurer's post last November, was sworn into office for a four-year term last Monday.

Earlier, Melville M. Parker, Lebanon, Pa., president of the association, reviewed in a prepared speech, activities of the group during the past year.

Record Attendance

He said from a competitive standpoint, banking is at the crossroads. "Competition is keener than ever before, both from within our industry and from outside sources."

He urged the bankers to develop a well-trained staff to bring "the personal element" into financial dealings.

"Our ability to sell complete banking service to our consuming public, the efficiency of our internal operations, and our influences for good in our local communities will decide the future status of independent banking as a basic need in our nation's economy," Parker said.

Over 1,600 delegates—a record registration—are attending the four-day meeting which opened last night with a Pennsylvania Dutch style concert.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — There had been a siege of colds and flu in the Donald Laine home, so when Donald, 4, went to bed he prayed thusly:

"And please, God, make my daddy better and my sister better and my mother . . . well, she went to the doctor today so You won't have to do much for her."

Ezio Pinza, 64, Star Of Opera, Musical Comedy, Dies Of Stroke

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Ezio Pinza, 64-year-old retired musical comedy star and former Metropolitan Opera bass, died today at his home here after a stroke.

Death came at 2 a.m. His wife and children were at his bedside. Pinza's physician Dr. David H. Fogel said he "passed quietly in his sleep."

The doctor said death followed a stroke suffered here April 30, after which he "gradually went down hill."

Two Heart Attacks

Pinza had suffered two heart attacks. One was at Vervia, Italy, Aug. 26, 1956, which kept him in an Italian hospital for a short time. The second came at his home here last Dec. 3. He was in critical condition for about three weeks then at Greenwich, Conn., hospital.

In addition to the doctor, those at Pinza's bedside when he died were his wife, the former Doris Leak; their two daughters, Clelia, 15, and Gloria, 6, and their son, Peter, 13.

Also at the bedside were his wife's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William H. Leak, of West Stamford, and two brothers-in-law.

Has Third Daughter

Pinza also is survived by a third daughter, Mrs. Claudia Bolle, who was born to his first wife, who's dead. Mrs. Bolle lives with her husband John and their two children in Italy.

Pinza has a brother and sister in Italy.

Pinza suffered his first heart attack (first described as a slight paralytic stroke) while vacationing at a villa 15 miles from his boyhood home, Ravenna.

Immediately, plans were canceled for his first nonsinging part in a Broadway drama, "A Very Special Baby."

Gave Up Singing

Pinza returned to the United States in September, commenting: "It's depressing not to work."

Three months later, he suffered the second heart attack as he sat down to lunch with his wife at their Stamford home.

While convalescing from the first attack, Pinza announced his singing days were done.

"It is my desire and my intention not to sing any more," he said.

Bewildering Paradox

Instead, he declared, he would continue to appear before the audiences who kept calling for him, in straight, dramatic roles.

The Pinza career was a dazzling melange of popular triumph, artistic acclaim, exceptional versatility — and bewildering paradox.

He never thought of singing as a life work until 18 — an age when most opera fledglings have amassed a decade of sober study.

He had little training, could scarcely read a note — yet flawlessly sang 78 operatic roles to critical acclaim in the world's music capitals.

Rarely Practiced

He rarely practiced, gave his voice no special care. But he also exhibited none of the opera star's customary temperament and tantrums.

After 25 years atop the opera world, he successfully made a difficult transition into popular music and became a matinee idol of Broadway musical comedy.

As a matter of fact, his name wasn't even Ezio.

The seventh child (the only one to live beyond infancy) of a poor couple, he was born in Rome May 18, 1892.

Had Ambition To Be Racer

His father, a carpenter from Ravenna, wanted to name the boy for his brother Ezio. But the parish priest, horrified that it had been the name of a pagan general who persecuted early Christians, insisted the babe be baptized Fortunato instead. But everyone always called him Ezio.

Soon after Ezio's birth, the family returned to Ravenna, an ancient city on the Adriatic of medieval mood with the look of an operatic set.

Young Ezio worked in his father's shop (years later, in a $60,000 home in Stamford, he indulged in woodworking as a hobby) — but his ambition was to be a professor.

It was soon apparent that the idea wouldn't work (he kept the bike all his life, however) and he looked for some other career.

There is a story that some friends heard him singing "O Sole Mio" while bathing and suggested he try a vocal career.

His father took him to Bologna. A voice teacher there turned him down (the maestro changed his mind later and gave Pinza lessons) but with the help of the mayor, the hopeful youth got a scholarship to study music at the university. He studied there two years, working at carpentering and as a railroad brakeman to eke out an income.

His career as a singer began in Bellini's opera "Norma" with a small company at Soncino, near Milan. The year was 1914 — and almost immediately Pinza found himself drafted for war duty. He spent the next five years in uniform, emerging as a captain of artillery.

His postwar debut was in the role of King Mark in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" in the royal opera at Rome. He became an overnight sensation. Two years later Toscanini had him singing at La Scala in Milan. In 1926 he was lured to New York's Metropolitan Opera.

There — and in the opera centers of Paris, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and London — he was the undisputed monarch of song for two decades. Besides the Met, he sang regularly with the Chicago and San Francisco opera companies.

Possessed of the rare "grandezza" style of the superartist, Pinza sang his way through the villain and hero roles of virtually all of grand opera's repertoire. Perhaps he was most famous in "Don Giovanni," as Mephistopheles in "Faust," and the magnificently mad "Boris Godunoff."

His recordings of classics, and of American folk tunes — marked though they were with the heavy accent he never lost — became long run best sellers. His annual income was estimated at $125,000.

Physically as well as vocally he was exceptions. A six-footer with a barrel chest, culy locked, with an aquiline nose and twinkling eyes, Pinza moved with an athlete's instinctive grace.

His main delights were two-fold: food and beautiful women.

Sometimes too he liked to hunt, fish, play bridge. He was an inveterate fan of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Few Jets At Time

Under the ruling now taking shape, however, Yugoslavia would not get the full backlog of about 300 American jet fighters previously earmarked for delivery.

The Yugoslavs would receive an undisclosed number of them, a few at a time, over a period of several years. Shipments of American tanks, howitzers and other heavy military hardware would be renewed pretty much according to previous delivery schedules.

Under congressional pressure, the administration banned all mil-

Report U.S. Ready To Resume Sending Jets To Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported about ready to resume military aid, including jet planes, to Yugoslavia after banning any weapons shipments for nearly a year.

Congress itself banned use of new foreign aid funds for major military aid to the Yugoslavs, but did not make the ban apply to items previously approved but not delivered.

Stay Independent

On Oct. 15, President Eisenhower decided to resume full economic aid to the hard-pressed Yugoslavs, but continued the ban on military assistance except for small quantities of small parts needed for equipment previously supplied.

Authorities said Marshal Tito's policies now show he intends to remain independent of Kremlin domination.

One of the prime factors influencing the administration in its aid ban was Tito's surprise flight to Russia last August for highly confidential talks with Soviet leaders. This aroused suspicion that the Yugoslavs and Russians might end the bitter differences which caused Tito to split with the Kremlin in 1948.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR

The impact of IPEX (International Photographic Exposition), recently held in Washington, D. C., will be felt in all levels of the photo world for a long time to come. Some new items, ready in advance, were timed to reach the consumer market at the same time that they were announced and unveiled at the show. Others were advance designs or hand tooled models that will take months before they become available.

Like all expositions or fairs, it's interesting to browse around with eyes and ears open. You run into old friends, unusual items and miscellaneous bits of information. For instance, during a discussion of the newest fast black-and-white film which can be pushed to astronomical speed ratings, we came to this conclusion: "You can shoot by available darkness."

I stopped more than once to watch and enjoy Jack Malon as he demonstrated the magic of color printing by using brightly tinted slides. Formerly a magician and lecturer, Jack is now an executive with Technicolor-Paville in negative type color films and type C printing, they can do tricks with color prints and still keep within the budget of average camera fans.

And speaking of what the average camera fan can afford, he'd better not order a Logotronic Enlarger... yet. Oh, it's a wonderful machine all right. It has an electronic beam which scans every portion of a negative and automatically dodges and burns in to assure perfect exposure control for a perfect print. The price for this photographic automation: $10,000. They may be cheaper by the dozen.

Not too far from the most expensive enlarger I ever saw was an ingenious easel for printing enlargements without borders. The which hold the paper slope up permitting the light from the enlarger to reach to the very edge. Called the Saunders Bord-R-Less Easel, it has a yellow base for easy, direct focusing instead of using an extra sheet of paper and has a nonskid rubber bottom.

In a corner, I came across a possible solution to the problem of how to display and live with your color transparencies. It's the Ideelite Illuminator, a decorative, two-inch-thin picture frame by which you can view, sort, retouch or display transparencies from 35 mm up to 10 x 10 inches. Masks can be had which make attractive display layouts of the smaller transparencies to fill the entire area. A special 8-watt fluorescent lamp of correct color quality provides the light sources in the base. This is bounced and reflected in the shallow interior to provide even illumination throughout the plexiglass viewing surface without heat. It can be stood up as a desk easel, hung on a wall or can be adapted as a portable, illuminated drawing board for tracing or negative retouching.

Eggs Without Shells Are Available In New Plastic Containers; Stay Fresh

By CATHERINE B. LOVE

Food packages just aren't what they used to be. There's a lot more design in food packages than ever before.

Not too long ago, something stylish, something with elaborate art work and design was considered a good package. Today's packages are functional; they do more than just contain the food we buy. They give food products better protection, are more convenient to use. Today's food packages are designed to provide ease of meal preparation, a wider selection, plus safer storage.

It was not too many years ago that bins were used for cookies, flour came in large sacks, etc., and the grocer had to weigh out the quantity each customer wanted. Imagine how much time it took to serve one customer!

Emphasize Convenience

Why is there so much emphasis on convenience in food packaging today? There are at least four impelling reasons.

1 Food purchasing power is greater now than ever before.

2 Fewer people want to work as maids. Outside help in the home is expensive today, and convenient to serve foods provide a great degree of built-in maid service.

3 Americans are always on the lookout for something new to try. 4 Most of us eat enough food, but not always the best balanced meals nutritionally. We just can't hold all the food we are encouraged to buy. So food merchandisers have to sell their particular products to us either on the basis of good nutrition, or tell us how convenient their foods are to use.

Packaging Marvels

Look for these packaging marvels.

Sliced bacon laid on a continuous foil strip in custom-size lengths to be snipped off as needed.

Flour that is pelleted in common household measurements—less dusty, taking less space.

Eggs without shells—sealed in plastic containers—will stay fresh longer, won't break when dropped, can be cooked or poached and served in the plastic containers.

The pre-cooked frozen meal will reach us in a wider variety than ever. The trend is toward complete packaged dinners such as turkey and all the fixings, with pumpkin pie for dessert. These sell in units in quantities to serve two up to ten. Dishes from the world's most famous restaurants will be in the freezers. Already, Maxim's of Paris have their sauces in cities across the United States. New York's expensive Chambord Restaurant freezes its celebrated special dishes. Frozen picnic packs will carry their own heating units.

Cooking With Onions

Instant Minced Onions. An easier way to cook with onions—no peeling, slicing, chopping, nor tears. Have a pleasing, mild, fresh flavor, not to strong, not too weak, but the same each time you use them.

Fractional packaging is the talk. Coffee comes in cup measures, plain, or with powdered cream and sugar.

Pealed potatoes in polyethylene bags are being tested on the market in eastern areas.

Precooked sausage links and partially cooked beans, their own foil pan. These are examples of a variety of handy foods in aluminum cans.

Cornbread mix that comes with its own pan, and its contents in a plastic bag. You add the egg and milk to the bag, knead it in the bag, then squeeze it in the pan. This costs considerably more than packaged corn muffin mix.

The tin can has long been a

Keep Coffee Fresh

A transparent film type bag has been developed that will keep ground coffee fresh. This may be the beginning of the end of in-store coffee grinding. Some stores will welcome the shelf space gained when the grinders go.

The grants were made under customers back. Maybe people hesitate to buy food in a container that is normally associated with toothpaste.

On the other hand, tubes have their advantages. They fit into the current home entertaining trend. They are tailor made for picnic baskets, camping trips, and lunch boxes. Tubes exclude air, and provide a longer period of freshness.

Lastly, danger of breakage found in all glass containers is eliminated. There are many plus factors in favor of food in tubes. At the present time, cheese spreads are coming on the market and perhaps there will soon be jams, and meat spreads. It may happen that specialty food stores rather than super-markets will be stocking more items in tubes.

Writes On Straw Hat Circuit '57

NEW YORK (P)—Curiosity made David Dachs write a book—the first cross-country guide for theater fans to summertime show business.

"The popularity of hot-weather theater is growing constantly," explains Dachs, "but no one ever got all the information into one place for fans who like to go traveling on vacation and see shows too."

Dachs has been compiling his data for two years, and in "Straw Hat 1957" lists barns, tents, fairs and pageants in 34 states and also Canada, plus where to stay and where to eat.
